TO PROBE WATER
Poor Water Supply Cause Of Serious Illness

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—An outbreak of diarrhea enteritis, a serious disease resulting from the drinking of poor water, today was added to the troubles of the drought-affected areas of southern Ohio.

Nurses and physicians are en route to 25 suffering counties to determine whether the disease is spreading in other counties as it has already increased in Belmont-co.

County Health Commissioner J. R. Dow, St. Clairsville, reported to Dr. H. G. Southard today that his county has recorded an increase of 10 per cent in diarrhea enteritis cases in a short time.

"Malnutrition, due to small quantity and poor quality of food, will be greatly increased in a few weeks," his report predicted.

Physicians, nurses and sanitary engineers will have completed a thorough survey of water and disease conditions in southern Ohio within a week.

Major C. S. Slade and Dr. W. P. Johnson will spend two days in Athens and Washington counties seeking locations where new wells may be drilled to relieve the water shortage.

Then, with Dr. W. J. Smith and E. M. McDill, they will carry a survey of rural health hazards in Morgan, Noble, Perry, Guernsey, Muskingum, Scioto, Lawrence, Gallia, Jackson, Pike and Ross counties.

Nurses sent out today included Miss Harriet Luce, Mrs. Esther Hauptli, Miss Helen Felkner, and Miss Clara Schmitz. They were instructed to urge local health authorities to make special efforts to see that proper food and care is given babies and children of preschool age.

They have assigned counties as follows: Miss Luce — Fayette, Clinton, Highland, Adams, Brown, Clermont; Mrs. Hauptli — Pickaway, Ross, Pike, Lawrence; Miss Felkner — Perry, Hocking, Jackson, Vinton, Gallia, Meigs, Morgan; Miss Schmitz — Muskingum, Guernsey, Tuscarawas, Carroll, Jefferson, Belmont, Monroe, Noble.

BANK CHARGES WILL BE FACED BY DAUGHERTY

Former President of Ohio State Bank at Washington C. H. on Trial

INTEREST VERY HIGH

Judge Bell on Bench; Case Young Lawyer Prosecutor

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON C. H., Feb. 9.—Three men were tentatively seated in the jury box at noon today within one hour after the opening of the trial of Mal Daugherty.

Those tentatively seated were C. W. Ervin, J. B. Ferneau and H. F. Beatty, all of Washington C. H.

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Feb. 9.—After months of delay because of the long legal battle he has waged in an effort to escape a jury, Mal D. Daugherty, former president of the Ohio State Bank, went on trial today in common pleas court on a charge of misappropriation of the bank's funds.

Daugherty's trial was set for a jury which may send him to the penitentiary next week and a case trial was set for today by Judge Charles S. Bell, assigned to the case by the Ohio supreme court.

CLOSED MAY 12

The Ohio state bank closed its doors on May 12, 1930, with liabilities of $2,222,587. The Fayette-co grand jury indicted Daugherty in October after Attorney General Gilbert Bettman had declared him a bankrupt.

The specific indictments on which Daugherty is on trial charge abstraction of $5,350 in bank funds, falsification of entries and misapplication of the funds and credit with fraudulent intent.

Many of the bank's depositors have filed suits in Columbus seeking to collect from the bank's officers and bondsmen of the state banking department.

Daugherty's attorneys have claimed that the grand jury was prejudiced by the presence of the state investigators during their inquiry into the bank's failure. When defense counsel filed pleas in abatement to the indictments, the state had the original ones dismissed and the grand jury immediately returned new bills containing the same counts.

The state's case in the trial is handled by Prosecutor Norman L. McLean, one of the youngest prosecutors in Ohio, who took office on Jan. 1, succeeding W. S. Paxson. Twenty-three witnesses have been summoned by the state, including State Superintendent of Banks, O. C. Gray, officials of the defunct Ohio State Bank and local business men.

Daugherty has been at liberty since his indictment under bond of $40,000 furnished by his mother, Mrs. Jane Daugherty, and his brother, Harry M. Daugherty, former United States Attorney General.

It is expected that the selection of a jury will require two days.

BETTMAN CUTS PHONE VALUES

Says State Utilities Erred In Setting Valuation of Ohio Bell Telephone.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Contending that the valuation should not exceed $34,475,026, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman today filed a protest with the State Utilities Commission on behalf of Ohio's telephone users against the $104,282,735 tentative valuation recently placed upon properties of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company for rate-making purposes.

The attorney general took exception in his protest to the figures, fixed by the utilities commission, representing the valuation of the company's right-of-way, central office equipment, station equipment, total exchange lines, toll lines, general equipment, going concern value, and Western Electric unit prices.

Let's Enforce This Ordinance

EDITORIAL

There may be too many ordinances on the statute books of Circleville, but there are some ordinances that should be enforced, that have been ignored. Circleville is a beautiful city, people from other cities and towns recognize this fact, but too many of the local residents and property owners do not properly play their part in keeping it so.

Last summer there were many trees that interfered with pedestrians on the sidewalks, because of not being properly trimmed. This same condition will again exist this year unless the following ordinance is enforced.

Sec. 155. The owner or owners or agent of any owner or owners of any lot or lots or parts of lots or lands, within the limits of the city are hereby required to have and to keep any and all trees and shrubbery of whatever kind, upon or adjoining to or abutting on said lot, lots or parts of lots or lands, properly trimmed and pruned in such a manner that said trees shall not at any time obstruct the light from any public street lamp upon any street, alley or sidewalk, or public ground of said city, and that said trees and shrubbery shall not at any time obstruct or inconvenience the public travel upon said streets, alleys, sidewalks or public ground of the city.

This is the time of the year to trim trees, and shrubbery, and if property owners do not voluntarily perform this work, the department who has authority to enforce it should see that it is done.

BROWN ADMITS PART IN THEFT

Local Man Signs Confession of Aiding Ferguson on Hamilton Job, Feb. 3.

Elmer Brown, this city, was returned to Hamilton Monday for questioning in connection with a series of thefts there for which Henry Ferguson, also of this city, is held. Brown, married and the father of two children, was taken to Hamilton after he confessed to Sheriff Charles Radloff and Officer William McCready that he was waiting for Ferguson in Hamilton when the latter was caught holding up a chain store.

Following is the text of the confession signed by Brown, who was taken into custody in the hills of Ross-co late Friday by the local sheriff's office:

"It was on Feb. 3 we left Circleville and went to Hamilton, O. It was about 5:30 p. m. when we arrived there. We had left here at about midnight. I don't know the street we parked on, but it was off East-ave. At about 7:15 p. m. the robbery took place. He (Ferguson) told me to wait for him which I did. He said he would be back in a little bit. He promised me for my share $10. I waited for him about two hours around there but he did not return. I stayed in Hamilton and then came back to Circleville.

I said Elmer Brown, to the best of my ability made the above confession without any threats or promises.

(Signed) Elmer Brown

3 MEN, HORSES DIE WHEN FIRE SWEEPS BARN

Exact Number of Dead Men not Determined; 60 Prize Horses are Killed

LOSS IS ABOUT $400,000

Believe Flames are of Incendiary Origin

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 9.—Three men, possibly more were believed to have burned to death here early today when a fire swept through temporary barns which housed horses that were shown in the Oakland National horse show.

Sixty prize horses were burned to death in the blaze.

The fire was discovered by a watchman but the flames spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save the plunging and maddened horses that screamed in agony and fright as the flames enveloped them.

DIED BESIDE HORSE

One of the men who lost his life in the fire is thought to have been Michael McCarthy, 55, who attempted to rescue the $35,000 prize mare, Carnation Lavendula, of the Carnation Farm stables of Pomona, Calif. Beside her was a burned human body, charred beyond recognition.

The number of men to lose their lives in the blaze was problematical. A dozen or so hostlers were known to have been sleeping in the stables, and several more, who rushed into the burning barns in an attempt to save valuable horses failed to appear later.

Some of the maddened horses kicked their way through the burning walls. They were shot by officers to put them out of their misery. They were badly burned before escaping.

FREE, BREAKS LEG

Zero Hour, one of the prize horses, kicked its way to safety but broke its leg after being liberated and had to be shot.

Another famous horse, Carnation Chief, the beautiful five-gaited stallion owned by Mrs. Paul O'Neill, of Woodland, Calif., was also burned to death. Carnation Chief was one of the big prize winners at the show.

Loss of horses alone was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $400,000. The loss would have run over a million if the fire had occurred before 13 carloads of valuable animals were shipped from the barns yesterday.

The outstanding show horse of the nation, Chief of Longview, was one of the few horses saved. It was in the stables when the fire broke out. It is owned by Mrs. W. P. Roth of San Francisco. There was no report on other horses owned by Mrs. Roth.

Fire department officials revealed today that a fire had broken out in the barns on the first day of the show. They asserted it was of incendiary origin.

It was reported today that a strong odor of gasoline was noticed about the barns when the fire department first arrived, giving credence, it was asserted, that this fire was also of incendiary origin.

SCHLEGLER HOME IS SCENE OF FIRE

Damage of $10 was done at the home of Charles Schlegler of the Lancaster-pk Sunday at 8:55 p. m. when fire from a stove in the parlor burned a hole in the floor.

Members of the Schlegler family smelled the smoke for quite a time before they discovered where the blaze really was because it had worked through the floor.

Firemen were called who extinguished the flames.

APPEAL COURT JUDGE INJURED

Peter J. Blosser, Chillicothe, Suffers Scalp Wound When Auto Hits Pole.

Judge Peter J. Blosser, Chillicothe, member of the Fourth Ohio Court of Appeals, and Mrs. Blosser were injured early Sunday when their automobile struck a telephone pole on the Paris-Lexington, Ky. road, four miles south of Paris, Ky. Hospital attendants were told that Mrs. Blosser, was driving and that she lost control of the car when it skidded on a sharp curve. Judge Blosser suffered a severe scalp wound and Mrs. Blosser several body bruises.

They were on their way home from Miami Fla. Physicians said they would be able to continue their journey in several days.

Judge Blosser, as well as Mrs. Blosser, is well known in this city and county. The popular barrister was a witness in the trial of Mrs. Donna Stewart here two months ago in which case his home on the Chillicothe-pk was alleged to have been robbed. He has also been here a number of times as a member of the district court of appeals.

TWO GUNMEN ARE KILLED

Chicago Police Capture Third After Finding Men In Cigar Store Today.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Trapped by two policemen while robbing a cigar store, two gunmen were shot and killed today and a third was captured following a revolver battle.

One of the slain men was partially identified as John Kelly, 28, but the other victim remained unidentified. The captured man was Edward Wolf, an ex-convict.

Two police sergeants saw the two climbing into the store from a hole in the ceiling and opened fire through the door. The men fled through a rear door and when they failed to halt another burst of gunfire brought two of them down. A bullet had pierced the heart of each.

Wolf, the third member of the gang, attempted to flee, but was captured and disarmed. He refuses to name his two companions when grilled by police.

W. FETHERLIN ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

W. Wythe Fetherlin, director of journalism in the local high school, will be a leader of a round-table discussion at a journalism meeting to be held at McClain high school, Greenfield, Feb. 14, beginning at 9 a. m. Others on the program will be Dr. J. G. Colquhoun, superintendent of Columbus schools, and Prof. Edmon C. Hill, Ohio Wesleyan University, who will speak on "The School Paper Its Cost."

Others who will take part in the round-table discussion will be Miss Francis Brown, Dayton; Miss Edna Pratt, Central high Columbus; and Oliver B. Mathing, Springfield.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN START BETTER BUSINESS CAMPAIGN FOR CITY DURING FEBRUARY

Follow Lead of Other Cities in Paying Bills and Purchasing Needed Articles During Month; Method Will Circulate $4,500 in 30 Days; Third National Bank Sponsors Idea.

In several cities during the past few months, merchants have issued checks for $5, which must be used within 30 days, not good outside the city, and must be spent towards paying bills or buying needed merchandise.

The Third National Bank received full information on how this was accomplished in Gaylord, Mich., and asked The Herald its conception of the idea. It appealed to us and The Herald has printed the checks and the Third National Bank will have 30 of these checks signed by local merchants.

HERE'S THE HOW

The whole idea hinges around the idea that every person who signs one of these checks owes some other business man $5 or needs something that will cost at least $5. He pays nothing for the check to start, but before he can spend it, he must sign his name to it. The merchant who takes the check must spend it also, endorsing it on the back, for which there is room for 30 endorser. In other words, this check must be spent on an average of once every 24 hours or 30 times during the next 30 days toward paying a bill or buying something, thus creating $150 worth of business. It can then be presented to the bank who will pay the face value, or $5, charging the amount to the person who signed the check.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

To make this plan successful, it is necessary that every one co-operate, every business man accepting the check as legal tender. He in turn spends it to create more business or pay some indebtedness. This check must be endorsed 30 times, though it may be used several times in one day, just as long as it is spent 30 times in 30 days.

Should a person get one of these checks toward the end of the 30 days and the endorserments are not up to date, it is his responsibility to use it as quickly as possible, so that it will have completed its cycle.

The bank will not accept it as legal tender unless all endorserments have been made, therefore no one can "put it in his cash drawer and forget it until the 30 days are up."

There should be a lot of fun as well as profit in circulating these checks, and to know the names of all the people who have paid a bill or bought something through the use of them. Let us make it a game.

This is an experiment in Circleville, but has been found successful in other towns. It will take the co-operation of every one who receives one of these checks to make it a success in Circleville. Let's go folks and spend this $5 check just as soon as someone spends it with you.

PROHIBITION BILL IS UP

Nippert Proposal For Referendum To Go Before House, Tuesday, Report Says.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Facing its first test in public hearing, Ohio's prohibition problem, embodied in the Nippert resolution proposing repeal of the prohibition amendment, will be taken off the shelf and dusted before the House Judiciary committee at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

This, along with taxation, loomed today as the promising highlight of the forthcoming week's legislative session here. The house will reconvene tonight at 7:30 o'clock and the senate a half hour later.

Among other bills which will be up for early discussion is the initiated automobile drivers' safety responsibility bill which the house insurance committee will wrangle over in a second hearing tonight. Hearing will also be started by the senate labor committee tonight on the Ackerman bill proposing establishment of a state employees' retirement system.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN FLORIDA

Henry D. Turney, aged 78, president of the Planet Oil Co., Columbus, and a native of this city, died Sunday of heart disease and uremic poisoning in Sarasota, Fla., where he had been spending the winter. He had been ill since Wednesday night.

Mr. Turney left this city to go to Columbus nearly 50 years ago. He worked in the Deshier National Bank for years and was one of the founders of the Columbus Club and also a member of the State Country Club and the Trinity Episcopal church. For many years he was president of the Wyandott Club.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Law Merck, Columbus, who was with him when he died; Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, Minneapolis, Minn.; and Mrs. Edna White, St. Paul, Minn. His wife, Mrs. Emily Bartholomew Turney, succumbed in 1913.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the residence, 538 E. Town-st with burial in Forest cemetery here.

The regular meeting of the Circleville Benevolent association will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the city cottage. The annual report will be given and the officers for the new year will be elected. A large attendance is desired.

MORE SNOW OR RAIN EXPECTED THROUGH OHIO

MERCURY IS TO FALL

New York Employs 35,000 Men to Clean Snow

Slightly colder weather with more rain or snow, particularly in the drought-suffering counties of southern Ohio, is in store for the state during the next week, according to government weather reports Monday.

Circleville had 37 of an inch of rainfall Sunday evening and early Monday morning, according to Dr. Hartley Clarke, weather observer. The rain Friday was only .11 of an inch.

The thermometer registered several degrees lower this morning after several days of spring-like temperatures and the mercury was expected to fall below the freezing mark again tonight. In all parts of Ohio today, official reports stated that from 30 to 35 degrees prevailed.

The rain, which fell on southern Ohio did little to relieve the wheat famine.

AIN'T DAT SOMETHING

The drought about Kingston has become so serious that one family in that village, where cattle has gone dry, made arrangements with relatives in this city to take Saturday baths here.

famine, weather bureau officials stated. Cloudy weather today and indications of rain or snow.

Residents of this community were surprised Monday when they awakened to find the ground covered with snow when rain was falling when they retired.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—While some parts of the country were suffering from wintry weather today Chicago was basking in a February summer which induced beach bathing and golf.

Swimming races and canoe tipping contests entertained beach crowds yesterday as bathers splashed about in Lake Michigan at a water carnival.

Golf courses had to press starters into service, so numerous were the players.

Weather forecasters predicted a drop in temperatures for tomorrow, however.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Thirty five thousand men, the largest number ever employed for such a task, today removed snow from New York's streets. An army of almost 28,000 men cleared the streets yesterday and about 7,000 were added to the force today.

About half of the men shoveling were temporarily enrolled from the ranks of the unemployed, radio appeals being made for the workers to report for duty.

It was estimated clearing of the streets of more than two inches of snow would cost the city in excess of $250,000. The men are paid 50 cents an hour.

The snow and rain which fell over the week-end served to augment the city's supply of water, which had been unusually low.

TWO ARE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Carl Wallace suffered cuts about the face, Mrs. Gertrude Bell was severely cut and Robert Thomas, all of this city, escaped injury early Sunday when the Chevrolet coupe, driven by Thomas, was side-swiped and thrown from the highway north of South Bloomfield. The driver of the automobile which struck the Thomas car did not stop.

The Thomas car was badly damaged and was taken to the Circleville Motors Co. garage.

J. Wylie Fetherlin, director of journalism in the local high school, will be a leader of a round-table discussion at a journalism meeting to be held at McClain high school, Greenfield, Feb. 14, beginning at 9 a. m. Others on the program will be Dr. J. G. Collicott, superintendent of Columbus schools, who will speak on "The Student Newspaper," and Prof. Eldon C. Hill, Ohio Wesleyan University, who will speak on "The School Paper, Its Cost."

Others who will take part in the round-table discussion will be Miss Francis Brown, Dayton; Miss Edna Pratt, Central high, Columbus and Oliver B. Mathing, Springfield.

CLEVELAND MAN IS FOUND SLAIN

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9.—Sensationalism which dotted the probe of the notorious land graft deals of 1929, was surpassed here today as detectives began a thorough investigation into the brutal slaying of William E. (Rarin) Bill Potter, central figure in the land scandal.

Potter, murdered on the eve of the re-opening of another quiz resulting from the graft deals, was found dead in an apartment in northeast Cleveland. He was to have appeared in common pleas court today to stand trial on charges of perjury.

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN START BETTER BUSINESS CAMPAIGN FOR CITY DURING FEBRUARY

Follow Lead of Other Cities in Paying Bills and Purchasing Needed Articles During Month; Method Will Circulate $4,500 in 30 Days; Third National Bank Sponsors Idea.

In several cities during the past few months, merchants have issued checks for $5, which must be used within 30 days, not good outside the city, and must be spent towards paying bills or buying needed merchandise.

The Third National Bank received full information on how this was accomplished in Gaylord, Mich., and asked The Herald its conception of the idea. It appealed to us and The Herald has printed the checks and the Third National Bank, will have 30 of these checks signed by local merchants.

HERE'S THE HOW

The whole idea hinges around the idea that every person who signs one of these checks owes some other business man $5 or needs something that will cost at least $5. He pays nothing for the check to start, but before he can spend it, he must sign his name to it. The merchant who takes the check must spend it also, endorsing it on the back, for which there is room for 30 endorsers. In other words, this check must be spent on an average of once every 24 hours or 30 times during the next 30 days toward paying a bill or buying something, thus creating $150 worth of business. It can then be presented to the bank who will pay the face value, or $5, charging the amount to the person who signed the check.

The check is not negotiable until the 30 endorsers have signed it. It is estimated that a minimum of 30 checks will be signed to start the thing, which will be responsible for business amounting to $4,500. The Herald, however, has printed enough checks so that the supply can be kept up, and it is hoped that many more will be used.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

To make this plan successful, it is necessary that every one co-operate, every business man accepting the check as legal tender. He in turn spends it to create more business or pay some indebtedness. This check must be endorsed 30 times, though it may be used several times in one day, just as long as it is spent 30 times in 30 days.

Should a person get one of these checks toward the end of the 30 days and the endorsements are not up to date, it is his responsibility to use it as quickly as possible, so that it will have completed its cycle.

The bank will not accept it as legal tender unless all endorsements have been made, therefore no one can put it in his cash drawer and forget it until the 30 days are up.

There should be a lot of fun as well as profit in circulating these checks, and to know the names of all the people who have paid a bill or bought something through the use of them. Let us make it a game.

This is an experiment in Circleville, but has been found successful in other towns. It will take the co-operation of every one who receives one of these checks to make it a success in Circleville. Let's go folks and spend this $5 check just as soon as someone spends it with you.

BUTLER TRIAL IS CALLED OFF

Proceeding of Court-Martial Simmer To Reprimand From Sec. Adams.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—A sight of relief almost loud enough to be heard in Rome went up over official Washington today over the abrupt abandonment of the court martial of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. Marine Corps for deserting Premier Mussolini as a hit-and-run driver.

The matter has been allowed to drop with a letter from General Butler that he regrets having caused "embarrassment to the government" and with a companion letter from Secretary of the Navy Adams condemning the General's "indiscretion."

General Butler went back to his post at Quantico today with a wide grin on his face and re-hoisted his commandant's flag of two stars, which was pulled down a week ago when he was placed under military arrest.

All over the capital today the question was being asked: "Who called off the trial?" It promises to become almost as famous as the question of: "Who killed Cock Robin."

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN FLORIDA

Henry D. Turney, aged 78, president of the Planet Oil Co., Columbus, and a native of this city, died Sunday of heart disease and uremic poisoning in Sarasota, Fla., where he had been spending the winter. He had been ill since Wednesday night.

Mr. Turney left this city to go to Columbus nearly 50 years ago. He worked in the Deshler National Bank for years and was one of the founders of the Columbus Club and also a member of the Scioto Country Club and the Trinity Episcopal church. For many years he was president of the Wyandott club.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Hugh Law Meek, Columbus, who was with him when he died; Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Edwin White, St. Paul, Minn. His wife, Mrs. Emily Bartlett Turney, succumbed in 1913.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the residence, 538 E. Town-st with burial in Forest cemetery here.

The regular meeting of the Circleville Benevolent association will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the city cottage. The annual report will be given and the officers for the new year will be elected. A large attendance is desired.

PROHIBITION BILL IS UP

Nippert Proposal For Referendum To Go Before House, Tuesday, Report Says.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Facing its first test in public hearing, Ohio's prohibition problem, embodied in the Nippert resolution proposing repeal of the prohibition amendment, will be taken off the shelf and dusted before the House Judiciary committee at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

This, along with taxation, loomed today as the promising highlight of the forthcoming week's legislative session here. The house will reconvene tonight at 7:30 o'clock and the senate a half hour later.

Among other bills which will be up for early discussion is the inflated automobile drivers' safety responsibility bill which the house insurance committee will wrangle over in a second hearing tonight. Hearing will also be started by the senate labor committee tonight on the Ackerman bill proposing establishment of a state employees' retirement system.

SISTER OF LOCAL MAN ANSWERS CALL

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Funeral arrangements were completed today for Mrs. Victoria Buckles, 43, who committed suicide at her home here last Saturday by slashing her left arm with a razor, police said. She died in White Cross hospital shortly after committing the act.

Dr. Frank Watson, her family physician, said she had been ill for eight years and was temporarily insane.

Her survivors include her husband, Herman W. Buckles, and a brother, Eugene, of Circleville.

MORE SNOW OR RAIN EXPECTED THROUGH OHIO

Temperature of Between 30 and 35 Prevails Today; Rain Is Good One

MERCURY IS TO FALL

New York Employs 35,000 Men to Clean Snow

Slightly colder weather with more rain or snow, particularly in the drought-suffering counties of southern Ohio, is in store for the state during the next week, according to government weather reports Monday.

Circleville had .37 of an inch of rainfall Sunday evening and early Monday morning, according to Dr. Hartley Clarke, weather observer. The rain Friday was only .11 of an inch.

The thermometer registered several degrees lower this morning after several days of spring-like temperatures and the mercury was expected to fall below the freezing mark again tonight. In all parts of Ohio today, official reports stated that from 30 to 35 degrees prevailed.

The rain, which fell on southern Ohio did little to relieve the water famine, weather bureau officials stated. Cloudy weather today gave indications of rain or snow.

Residents of this community were surprised Monday when they awakened to find the ground covered with snow when rain was falling when they retired.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—While some parts of the country were suffering from wintry weather today Chicago was basking in a February summer which induced beach bathing and golf.

Swimming races and canoe tipping contests entertained beach crowds yesterday as bathers splashed about in Lake Michigan at a water carnival.

Golf courses had to press starters into service, so numerous were the players.

Weather forecasters predicted a drop in temperatures for tomorrow, however.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Thirty five thousand men, the largest number ever employed for such a task, today removed snow from New York's streets. An army of almost 28,000 men cleared the streets yesterday and about 7,000 were added to the force today.

About half of the men shoveling were temporarily enrolled from the ranks of the unemployed, radio appeals being made for the workers to report for duty.

It was estimated clearing of the streets of more than two inches of snow would cost the city in excess of $250,000. The men are paid 50 cents an hour.

The snow and rain which fell over the week-end served to augment the city's supply of water, which had been unusually low.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Because of bad weather, Robert Buck, 17-year-old flyer of Elizabeth, N. J., today postponed his projected one-day flight to Havana. He said he would take off tomorrow if the weather was favorable.

TWO ARE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Carl Wallace suffered cuts about the face, Mrs. Gertrude Bell was severely cut and Robert Thomas, all of this city, escaped injury early Sunday when the Chevrolet coupe, driven by Thomas, was side-swiped and thrown from the highway north of South Bloomfield. The driver of the automobile which struck the Thomas car did not stop.

The Thomas car was badly damaged and was taken to the Circleville Motors Co. garage.

BETTMAN CUTS PHONE VALUES

Says State Utilities Erred In Setting Valuation of Ohio Bell Telephone.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Contending that the valuation should not exceed $84,475,026, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman today filed a protest with the State Utilities Commission on behalf of Ohio's telephone users against the $104,282,735 tentative valuation recently placed upon properties of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company for rate-making purposes.

The attorney general took exception in his protest to the figures, fixed by the utilities commission, representing the valuation of the company's right-of-way, central office equipment, station equipment, toll exchange lines, toll lines, general equipment, going concern value, and Western Electric unit prices.

OHIOANS TALK ABOUT FISHING

Small Dams Should Be Built To Aid Say Anglers in Central Ohio.

LONDON, O., Feb. 9.—Expert anglers of the modern school and old-time cane-pole fishermen, all brothers under the skin and bud-fetters along the creek bank or in the boat, were of the same opinion today in the demand that more and better fishing in the future be made in this large inland fishing section of Ohio.

There was a time, not so many years ago that it has been forgotten or overlooked, that bass fishermen in Central Ohio were looked upon as the "cream" of the state and the bass streams that cross and recross this section were considered the equal of the best or better than the rest.

All of that and more has been changed for the worse in the past few years and even the dyed-in-the-wool Buckeye sportsmen of this section have cranked up the old flivver and departed for parts north, east and west, but mostly north—to Michigan and Canada.

Fishermen here who knew where the bass "used to be but are not anymore" and who could find them anytime, want the "good old days" back and they offer suggestions for ways and means.

Low waters in creeks and the larger streams mean no fish. The anglers contend that small concrete dams should be built across the creeks at intervals of from four to five miles. This would increase the depth of the water to the extent that fish may live and multiply with the outflow sealer being able to wade in the streams and the fish will naturally increase.

Examples of the dam construction and results are available in Madison-co and the fishermen state that this is the best plan of all.

Keep the state fish hatcheries at work, they say, but make them produce more fish by the better use of the state's money.

Some of the finest and most expert artificial and live bait anglers in Ohio reside in and near the boundaries of Madison-co and it is expected that the plan advocated will be given the consideration they claim that it deserves.

NEW QUAKE JARS ZEALAND ISLAND

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Feb. 9.

New earth shocks jarred the Hawke Bay section of North Island today, terrorizing the survivors of Tuesday's disastrous earthquakes and adding further to the property damage in the Napier, Hastings, Wairoa and Gisborne areas.

Further casualties were not reported, but walls and weakened buildings in the several towns crashed down, and at Napier part of a cliff slid off into the sea with a deafening roar.

SYDNEY.—Brisbane and other cities along the Queensland coast have experienced the worst floods in thirty years but the danger of a real disaster has passed with the cessation of the rain.

WELLINGTON.—Napier and Hastings, the two cities practically destroyed by Tuesday's earthquakes, are to be reconstructed with government assistance.

BETTER BUDGETING IS URGED TO WORK DOLLAR ON ROADS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In order to successfully carry out the mandate of the people in the great enterprise of road building, state highway officials are turning their attention more closely than ever to the proper budgeting of highway expenditures. This they conceive to be the first and most essential step toward keeping the road dollar at work where it logically belongs.

First, the necessary capital for highway construction, and second, the best and most effective and far-reaching use of that capital, according to a bulletin issued by the American Association of State Highway Officials, is the goal set for the new period upon which road builders are now entering.

At the recent annual meeting of State highway officials at Pittsburgh, the bulletin states, the matter of proper budgeting of highway expenditures was taken up as one of the most important subjects for consideration and definite action.

A highway budget, it was agreed, should be defined as the total annual amount available for expenditures in each state for highway purposes, and should be adjusted to meet the annual requirements of maintenance and construction contemplated. Further, all road improvements should be made on a basis of present and probable early future earning capacity. No public works should be measured by immediate financial return, though this should be a major consideration in the selection of the character of improvement.

The wide variance in the present status of highway development in the several states, members of the Association agreed, prevents the adoption of uniform policies for securing the funds necessary for the annual budget. Generally speaking, however, these principles may be set forth as follows:

"States in the initial stage of highway development should issue bonds to defer that portion of the annual charge for construction which would overburden either the property or the road user.

"States where original construction programs are well under way can, in the main, finance normal new construction from current funds, utilizing bond issue funds to defer the cost of special projects.

"States where original construction is largely completed are concerned chiefly with maintenance and reconstruction, and should depend on current funds save in cases of emergency.

"State highway bond issues should be serial in form and should mature over a period not exceeding 30 years.

"Highway bonds issued by a political subdivision of a State should be serial in form and should mature over a period not exceeding 20 years.

"Serial maturities should be arranged so that the annual requirements of principal and interest will be as nearly uniform as practicable.

The above statements constitute the revised principles of highway administration and finances and may be taken as a safe guide for such work as may come up in the various states.

ADJUSTMENTS IN HIGHWAY INCOMES THOUGHT NEEDED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Simplification in levying motor license fees and gasoline taxes for highway construction and maintenance is being called to the attention of forty-four legislative bodies now entering upon 1931 sessions.

There is a tendency, according to a bulletin issued by the American Association of State Highway Officials, to reduce the registration fee and make up the reduction on the gasoline side of the ledger by increasing the fuel tax. In the judgment of highway officials, this is wrong in principle, because the total income from both sources is needed to maintain the highway bank account at a safe and satisfactory working level. Moreover, the tendency to lower one and raise the other does not necessarily mean an increase, but in some cases it will mean an actual decrease in the total amount coming in for construction and maintenance.

"In the matter of needed uniformity, a comparison of the receipts from license fees throughout the country," the bulletin continues, "shows that among states using the same method or methods in determining how the fee shall be secured, there is no standard form. There are fourteen states, for example, which use horsepower alone as the determining factor, and yet the schedules of rates are so different that the maximum amount received per motor vehicle in this group is $19.88, while the minimum is $6.84—a difference of $13.04 per vehicle. Four states use horsepower and net weight as the factors and their receipts vary from $15.69 to $6.67.

"Two states use horsepower and gross weight. The schedule of one is 25c per horsepower and 25c per 100 lbs., while the other is 12 1-2c per horsepower and 55c per 100 lbs. They enter the financial hopper at different rates but one comes out at $17.73 and the other at $17.72.

"Six states use gross weight only and the treasury is helped $19.94 per car in one state and the least must be satisfied with $8.91. A dozen states use net weight only and they range from $8.90 to $26.68. Two states use a flat rate and get the same income—$5.65 per car.

"Seven states each have a meth-

NO CHANGE IN BIG SPEEDWAY

Not a Brick Will Be Altered On Indianapolis Track For Big Event.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 9.—Not a single one of the 3,200,000 bricks which are the two and one-half pathway for world famous race drivers at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will be changed for the International 500-mile race in May, it was decided here today.

Built in 1910 of brick and concrete for the first 500-mile drive in May, 1911, there is an annual hue and cry to resurface the famous speedway.

"But strangely enough," explains T. E. "Pop" Myers, general manager of the track, "complaints of the condition of the track come from spectators who never have ridden over the bricks in even a touring car."

A committee of racing experts have just completed an exhaustive survey of the famous speed course and declare it is to be in just as excellent condition today as it was for the first 500-mile race which was won by Ray Harroun at an average of 74.59 miles an hour.

"It is a great test of men, motors and materials," declares Charles Merz, famous retired driver who was seventh in the 1911 race and who has taken an active part in the speed sport even since his retirement. "True, it is a difficult, course to drive. But since it is the biggest race in the world, since the winners of the contests run over it are declared world champions, it is only fitting that it be a real test of courage and ability at the wheel. Indeed it is no event for mollycoddlers. There is $100,000 in prize money and world wide fame hanging on the finish wire for the first driver home. And pilots can't wish their way into first place. They must skillfully push their way to the front."

Merz, still youthful for all his years of speed, is of the opinion young drivers making their first ride at Indianapolis are the ones who complain of the difficulties of negotiating the long and short straightaways and four quarter turns at high speed.

"Certainly it is different than any other course over which they have ridden," he says. "But it is no more difficult now than it was in 1911. In fact in many ways it is much easier. In the early days we had to manhandle those heavy cars. Now the mounts are faster, lighter, better balanced and much easier to handle."

And all their own. One uses value in pounds net weight; one, value; one, cost price; one, cubic inch displacement; one, manufacturer's list price; one, net weight horsepower and times registered; and finally, one uses a combination of factory price, net weight, horsepower and times registered, and yet after all this trouble the amount received, per car, is only $8.29. The way some of the schedules are made would seem to justify the conclusion that simplicity in method and schedule used is greatly to be desired.

"That there is justice in the argument that, with the retention of the motor license and gas tax, the motor vehicle should be exempted from personal property taxation is shown when that argument is accepted by 13 states. While there may be a few cars which, for a time, escape the license fee, none can escape the gas tax. Moreover, it is a notable fact that the property tax is very unequally administered, and in many instances is entirely ignored. Entire elimination of the property tax, which in most cases does not go for road purposes, should be recommended to the states which have not already abandoned this plan of taxation.

"All of which," the bulletin concludes, "should be done during the coming sessions of state legislative bodies as a means of implifying the levying of revenue for highway construction."

MANY EVENTS IN OHIO RELAY

Meeting To Be at O. S. U. On May 1 and 2; Simpson May Be In Special.

COLUMBUS, O.—Thirty-seven events will comprise the program for the eighth annual Ohio Relays to be held May 1 and 2 at Ohio State University. In the open division for universities and colleges nine individual events are scheduled.

Relay events for universities only are the 440-yard, half mile, one mile, two mile, distance medley and four mile races. There will also be a shuttle hurdle relay, an event in which a world's record was established here in 1929.

Five college relays will also be run. Ohio colleges will have a sprint medley relay and a 100-yard dash.

In the high school division, there will be mile relays for both class A and class B schools as well as half mile and two mile relays and five individual events. There will also be two preparatory school relays, one for junior high schools and one for elementary schools.

George Simpson, famous Buckeye sprint star and world record holder, may be brought back for the meet to compete in a special sprint event against some of the leading speedsters of the United States.

MURDERED WIFE

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Charles Miceli was under arrest today, charged with the murder of his wife, Frances, who was shot and killed at the doorstep of their home.

Miceli admitted shooting his wife out of jealousy, police said, and calmly returned to bed to finish the night's rest.

The body was found at the threshold of the Miceli apartment at dawn. Police were summoned and on questioning the husband he was said to have admitted killing her out of jealousy.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

OHIOANS TALK ABOUT FISHING

Small Dams Should Be Built To Aid Say Anglers In Central Ohio.

LONDON, O., Feb. 9.—Expert anglers of the modern school and old-time cane-pole fishermen, all brothers under the skin and buddies along the creek bank or in the boat, were of the same opinion today in the demand that more and better fishing in the future be made in this large inland fishing section of Ohio.

There was a time, not so many years ago that it has been forgotten or overlooked, that bass fishermen in Central Ohio were looked upon as the "cream" of the state and the bass streams that cross and recross this section were considered the equal of the best or better than the rest.

All of that and more has been changed for the worse in the past few years and even the dyed-in-the-wool Buckeye sportsmen of this section have cranked up the old fiver and departed for parts north, east and west, but mostly north—to Michigan and Canada.

Fishermen here who knew where the bags "used to be" but are not anymore, and who could find them anytime, want the "good old days" back and they offer suggestions for ways and means.

Low waters in creeks and the larger streams mean no fish. The anglers contend that small concrete dams should be built across the creeks at intervals of from four to five miles. This would increase the depth of the water to the extent that fish may live and multiply with the outlay seiner being able to wade in the streams and the fish will naturally increase.

Examples of the dam construction and results are available in Madison-co and the fishermen state that this is the best plan of all.

Keep the state fish hatcheries at work, they say, but make them produce more fish by the better use of the state's money.

Some of the finest and most expert artificial and live bait anglers in Ohio reside in and near the boundaries of Madison-co and it is expected that the plan advocated will be given the consideration they claim that it deserves.

NEW QUAKE JARS ZEALAND ISLAND

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Feb. 9.—New earth shocks jarred the Hawke Bay section of North Island today, terrorizing the survivors of Tuesday's disastrous earthquakes and adding further to the property damage in the Napier, Hastings, Wairoa and Gisborne areas.

Further casualties were not reported, but walls and weakened buildings in the several towns crashed down, and at Napier part of a cliff slid off into the sea with a deafening roar.

SYDNEY.—Brisbane and other cities along the Queensland coast have experienced the worst floods in thirty years but the danger of a real disaster has passed with the cessation of the rain.

WELLINGTON.—Napier and Hastings, the two cities practically destroyed by Tuesday's earthquakes, are to be reconstructed with government assistance.

BETTER BUDGETING IS URGED TO WORK DOLLAR ON ROADS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In order to successfully carry out the mandate of the people in the great enterprise of road building, state highway officials are turning their attention more closely than ever to the proper budgeting of highway expenditures. They thus conceive to be the first and most essential step toward keeping the road dollar at work where it logically belongs.

First, the necessary capital for highway construction, and second, the best and most effective and far-reaching use of that capital according to a bulletin issued by the American Association of State Highway Officials, is the goal set for the new period upon which road builders are now entering.

At the recent annual meeting of State highway officials at Pittsburgh, the bulletin states, the matter of proper budgeting of highway expenditures was taken up as one of the most important subjects for consideration and definite action.

A highway budget, it was agreed, should be defined as the total annual amount available for expenditures in each state for highway purposes and should be adjusted to meet the annual requirements of maintenance and construction contemplated. Further, all road improvements should be made on a basis of present and probable early future earning capacity. No public works should be measured by immediate financial return, though this should be a major consideration in the selection of the character of improvement.

In the early days we had to manhandle those heavy cars. Now the mounts are faster lighter, better balanced and much easier to handle."

Merz, still youthful for all his years of speed, is of the opinion young drivers making their first ride at Indianapolis are the ones who complain of the difficulties of negotiating the long and short straightaways and four quarter turns at high speed.

"Certainly it is different than any other course over which they have ridden," he says. "But it is no more difficult now than it was in 1911. In fact in many ways it is much easier. In the early days we had to manhandle those heavy cars. Now the mounts are faster lighter, better balanced and much easier to handle."

MANY EVENTS IN OHIO RELAY

Meeting To Be at O. S. U. On May 1 and 2; Simpson
May Be In Special.

COLUMBUS, O.—Thirty-seven events will comprise the program for the eighth annual Ohio Relays to be held May 1 and 2 at Ohio State University. In the open division for universities and colleges, nine individual events are scheduled.

Relay events for universities only are the 440-yard, half mile, one mile, two mile, distance medley and four mile races. There will also be a shuttle hurdle relay, an event in which a world's record was established here in 1929.

Five college relays will also be run. Ohio colleges will have a sprint medley relay and a 100-yard dash.

In the high school division, there will be mile relays for both class A and class B schools as well as half mile and two mile relays and five individual events. There will also be two preparatory school relays, one for junior high schools and one for elementary schools.

George Simpson, famous Buckeye sprint star and world record holder, may be brought back for the meet to compete in a special sprint event against some of the leading speedsters of the United States.

MURDERED WIFE
CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Charles Miceli was under arrest today, charged with the murder of his wife, Frances, who was shot and killed at the doorstep of their home.

Miceli admitted shooting his wife out of jealousy, police said, and calmly returned to bed to finish the night's rest.

The body was found at the threshold of the Miceli apartment at dawn. Police were summoned and on questioning the husband he was said to have admitted killing her out of jealousy.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MAN MURDERS WIFE, SUICIDES

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Financial difficulties were said by police today to have led Charles F. Shipman, 60, prominent broker, to shoot and kill his wife and then commit suicide at their home here.

Warned of Shipman's intention of committing the double tragedy, Charles Meyerholz, brother of Mrs. Shipman and a professor at the University of Pittsburgh, had come here and was in the house at the time of the shooting.

Shipman shot his wife through the head with a rifle and then turned the weapon on himself when Meyerholz was in another room.

The professor told of a race to arrive here from Pittsburgh in time to avert the tragedy Friday after receiving a telegram which read:

"Come at once Minnie is dead, and I will be dead before you arrive." It was signed by Shipman. Arriving here he found both alive.

A conference with relatives in which they promised to aid Shipman brought a promise from the broker that he would abandon the idea.

BOOK IS OBJECT OF TOWN OF LINCOLN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 9.—Abraham Lincoln is the subject of a book by Edgar Lee Masters' recent description of the Civil War president as "unhappy."

Lincoln was anything but "grotesque" in his dress, as Masters says in "Lincoln -- The Man," according to H. W. Fay, who has charge of Lincoln's tomb here. Fay, an ardent student of Lincoln's life history, says he has one hundred or more photographs of the president which show that "Lincoln's clothes were always neat and his hair well-combed."

WORK DECREASES IN OHIO AGAIN

COLUMBUS, O.—Despite a gain in December, industrial employment in Ohio again fell off in January, according to the monthly report of the bureau of business research, Ohio State University. The analysis was based upon returns from 770 establishments.

Delegates from eight colleges and universities will participate in formal discussions. The eight are Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Denison, Miami, Antioch, Wittenberg, Otterbein and Capital. The three invited to be represented are Oberlin, Ohio University and the University of Cincinnati.

Current conditions in China will be discussed by students representing Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan. Chester H. Rowell, former editor of the Fresno, Calif., Republican, will be the guest speaker. He recently visited China.

The question of the United States in the Caribbean will be taken up by students representing Antioch and Wittenberg. Raymond Leslie Buell, research director of the Foreign Policy Association, who has recently returned from the Caribbean, will be the guest speaker.

Francisco-Italian relations will be considered by students from Denison and Miami Universities, with Prof. G. R. Spencer, chairman of the department of political science, Ohio State University, as the guest speaker. Russian affairs will be taken up by students representing Otterbein and Capital with Prof. G. R. Havens, of Ohio State's department of romance languages, who recently spent six months in Russia, as guest speaker.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO TALK AFFAIRS

COLUMBUS, O.—Students from 11 Ohio colleges and universities will take part Friday and Saturday at Ohio State University in the first annual meeting of the Central Ohio Institute of Politics. They will discuss current foreign affairs. Delegates from eight colleges and universities will participate in formal discussions. The eight are Ohio State, Ohio Wesleyan, Denison, Miami, Antioch, Wittenberg, Otterbein and Capital. The three invited to be represented are Oberlin, Ohio University and the University of Cincinnati.

Nationalism vs. Sectionalism

Sectionalism

THERE is need in congress for a leader of men, but the cross-purpose and quarrels and squabbles exhibited by that body show the greater need to be for a preponderance of nationalists in its membership. The nation expects men saturated with individual and parochial ideas and prejudices to agree to a broad national policy.

The present congress is made up of a large number of men, each scrambling to get all he can for himself and his own immediate constituents and permitting their selfish wants and requirements to blind him to the national welfare. It is not a national congress but a congress of provincial representatives.

National relief must wait until each senator and representative obtains from the federal government relief for the particular locality from which he draws his votes. National appropriations must give the right of way to provincial grants. National problems must go unsolved until local issues have been decided.

It is not a new worry. The present emergency only makes it seem so. President Madison wrote of it. Webster and a few other senators before and since his time have on rare occasions taken the stand that the good of the nation comes first though it may mean injury to their home districts.

Because grave national problems confront the country, the need for national men was never greater than it is today. Congress must produce men who place their country first, their state or district second and their own political futures last.

White Elephants

FOR more than 12 years the great government plant at Muscle Shoals has remained idle while congress has wrangled over its disposition. Even now the house and senate are deadlocked on the question of how it shall be operated. There is no assurance that this controversy will ever end, for it is doubtful if congress will ever sell it to private interests, and as long as it is under government control it will be a football of politics. The indecisiveness of congress has put the people in that despairing mood where they will soon favor scrapping the plant or giving it away.

The Hoover dam at Black Canyon promises to be another Muscle Shoals. Congress seems to be over-powered by its affection for white elephants.

Hoover or Boulder dam has been a bone of contention since congress took up the matter of its construction. Here the seeds of controversy are even more numerous than at Muscle Shoals. Arizona is attacking the validity of the act and the states' compact by which the project was authorized. All states affected are dissatisfied with the allocation of power. Mexico has protested against the diversion of the waters of the Colorado River. And the battle between the private control and government control factions still rages.

Is it good policy to proceed with the expenditure of $250,000,000 before all the quarrels, dissatisfactions, and questions of operation have been ironed out? There was some excuse for running up a blind alley in the case of Muscle Shoals which was primarily a war emergency project. But no emergency exists at Hoover dam.

Luckless Islands

THE Virgin Islands have run into a string of bad luck since the time of their purchase by the United States. Misfortune after misfortune has been their lot.

First, prohibition ruined the profitable business of the natives of St. Croix on Santa Cruz, largest of the group of beautiful islands. They once manufactured rum from their sugar. Now their business is outlawed and they have no market for their sugar.

Prohibition is also the root of the troubles of the citizens of St. John, who once grew bay rum for the manufacture of bay rum. Regulation has so handicapped this industry as to make it unprofitable.

And now misfortune overtakes the smallest of the main islands. It has for generations lived almost entirely upon the ships that anchor there for supplies, and, since the American occupation, upon the spendings of the three navy men and marines who have been stationed there.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, is the young and beautiful daughter of a poor but socially accepted family. She is warned by her mother against marrying poverty. Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger. The Porters, rich but dull relatives, arrive. Nancy plans to use them as chaperones on a mountain trip to meet Roger. He appears the first night. The Porters are not pleased. Nancy and Roger take long rides over the mountain trails. They fall in love, but Nancy tells Roger she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp. Roger tries to induce her to stay. She tells him they will get over their love.

CHAPTER XVII.

"ARE you crazy? Of course we won't get over it. Why—I love you. You said you loved me."

"I do—I do. I'm just m-mad about you. But I've got to go back to the Awhawnee Hotel, and I'm going to go on being engaged—to my friend—and some day we'll both laugh about this and—"

"Laugh! God!"

"After we've got over it, I mean—"

"Nancy Hollenbeck, you ARE crazy!"

"No, I'm not. But I would be if I didn't go on with my engagement. I mean I have to—I promised—"

"Rot. You can't give up a man you love for one you don't!"

"Yes, I can. I already did. I was awfully in love with a boy but I put him right out of my mind—or almost—"

Tragedy

She had her head back on his arm again, pressing her cheek tight against the rough cloth, so that half her words were lost and he had to guess at them. "Really, dearest, it would be the most awful thing in the world for you if I did marry you. I'd be an awful wife for a poor man. It would be the worst tragedy—"

"Tragedy, honey?"

He was stroking her wind-blown curls, petting her, comforting her as one comforts a frightened child.

"That's the word." But she smiled through her tears.

"Well, that's too bad, Mrs. Decatur. Hate to have you start out your married life feeling that way. But you and I are going to get on with our trip right pronto—"

"We can't—the bus for Yosemite. Roger, what time is it?"

He grinned as he looked at his watch. "Five minutes past twelve. Your bus is gone, honey. Hungry?"

"GONE? Why... it can't be gone. My fare was paid on it..."

"I don't know what to do!" She put her hands together, helplessly.

"Roger, you should have told me. This—this shouldn't have happened—"

"Now you've got to come with me! His blue eyes were dancing. One long, lean arm shot out and pulled her to him.

"Help me! Help me!" Oh, if she only knew a prayer. "Dear God, please keep me from loving Roger—" But she couldn't keep her mind on it, with him kissing her eyes and his arms about her tighter and tighter. "Roger, can't you know what to do?"

"Nothing. We'll be married, won't we?"

"You don't marry anybody you haven't known a week!"

"You're going to!"

"I can't—I wouldn't dare... the family—"

"Damn the family! Dearest with the family. We'll call on them one of these days and fix that up tioned there. Now the military forces are to be withdrawn and a civilian government established. When the military departs there will depart with it the principal source of livelihood of a majority of the inhabitants.

31 SCHOLARSHIPS DO WELL AT O. S.

COLUMBUS, O.—The 31 holders of state scholarships at Ohio State University had a classroom average of 3.357 out of a possible 4.0 for the recent fall quarter. One, John W. Matson, Uhrichsville, had a perfect record of 4.0, while only four of the 31 fell below 3.0. Fourteen of the 31 were among those recently elected to Phi Eta Sigma or to Scholaris, freshmen scholarship honorary societies.

Records of some of the scholarship holders follow: Paul A. Mills, Haviland, 3.87; Richard D. Danford, Bellville, 3.35; Joseph L. Morton, New Vienna, 3.38; William E. Hill, Covington, 3.31; Robert G. Myers, Wauseon, 3.42; L. J. Coop, West Alexandria, 3.00; Donald Endres, Grove City, 3.24; Arthur Giangiocomo, St. Clairsville, 3.64; Ben J. Tepletsky, Pt. Clinton, 3.53; Delwin Kaufman, Garfield, 3.60; Marion L. Smith, Carrollton, 3.29; Jane Davis, Walbridge, 3.62 and Ernest P. Heiby, Ft. Recovery, 3.90.

Scholarships were awarded last year in the first annual statewide high school scholarship contest sponsored by the state department of education and the state-supervised universities and colleges. The

She let him carry her up the rocky trail to the road. He did it so easily, as if she were a child.

"At least papa ought to be glad he's so strong... regular he-man, no mistake about that!" She lifted her eyes and smiled tenderly, exciting in his supple strength, in his clear brown skin, darker than his sunburned hair, his twinkling bright blue eyes, the color of sapphires... until she thought of mama. Mama with her jaw sagging.

"Married? My baby married to a man?" Going to live in the mountains? Nancy went again, for mama.

Roger said, "Haven't you cried enough for one day? I'm afraid you'll dissolve into tears and I won't have anything left!"

So she was marry all the bumpy ride back to the camp. "Imagine what the bus driver thought when I didn't show up? I'd give anything to see Mrs. Porter's face when she finds out. Ooh! I won't be annoyed!... kiss me, Roger. It's five minutes since you have. I won't be neglected on my wedding day... remind me to wire Aunt Ellie... and mama

When he kissed her she imagined she could smell the little wood violets again... that they symbolized the freshness, the sweetness of this new life that was going to be hers.

Aunt Ellie Watson got three letters in the mail. One, forwarded from San Francisco, was a lovely, personal letter from Dr. McDuffy, head of the McDuffy Institute. A friend had told him she had a weak heart, he said, and he knew that his Red Label Prescription No. 11 was just what she needed. It was what would answer the enclosed questionnaire and return it together with HALF the regular price of the first bottle.

Food for Thought

Aunt Ellie put it away carefully in the little black silk bag with the crocheted, for future reference. The other two were picture postals cards.

Quite a pretty colored one from Nancy. "Darling Aunt Ellie. Here we are on the Nevada side of the lake already, having a lovely trip. Love to Louise. Devotedly, Nancy."

A picture of Tioza Pass from Mrs. Porter. "Beautiful scenery, but steep grades. Glad we have the Pierce and Mr. Porter is such a fine driver. Wish you were here. Tipped the stage driver heavy to look after Nancy. Sincerely, Mrs. Porter."

Aunt Ellie chuckled at that. Just like that silly Porter woman to tip a stage driver for nothing. But why to look after Nancy? Funny.

Aunt Ellie looked thoughtfully waiting for Louise, who had gone upstairs for another ball of cotton. Mama didn't like the idea of Nancy in Reno.

"But they're probably only staying a day!" Louise argued, "and everyone that takes the Tahoe trip comes home that way!"

She and Aunt Ellie had barely got inside the house and mama was showing them the letter she had had from Nancy. "Even so, it seems very common. One always thinks of divorces. I don't know why these Porter people wanted to go there. I don't know them at all, Ellie. I wish you had kept Nancy right with you. If I had known you were going to let her go off with these strange people I wouldn't have let her go!"

Appreciation

"If I had known she couldn't stay quiet and ladylike in the hotel I wouldn't have taken her!" Aunt Ellie retorted wakenly. "After all I've done—spending money like water—this is all the thanks I get."

She groped for a chair and sank into it, panting.

Louise, with a tired gesture, took the letter from her mother's hands, and read it through.

"Dearest Mama:

"Just a line from your wandering Nancy. Louise probably wrote you that I went on to Tuolumne Meadows with Aunt Ellie's friends, the Porters. Mr. and Mrs. and two girls about my age, kind of frumpy. The oldest one is always getting her feelings hurt, but the youngest is worse, always giggling, but you can't help but have a wonderful time in such a beautiful place.

"I wrote Louise and Aunt Ellie not to wait at Yosemite for me, because the Porters decided not to go back to Yosemite, but to go on to Tahoe and then Reno, and here I am. Don't know just what their plans are, so, if they show signs of wandering too far, may leave them.

"Reno is a funny place, but no chance to see the beautiful divorces, as we are just passing through. Louise will probably get home before I do. Love to all. "NANCY."

"She doesn't say much."

"It doesn't sound like her, Louise. I'm afraid of that high altitude. I won't agree with her. I remember when I was a girl I went on a trip to Los Angeles, and crossing the mountains I fainted dead away—"

Take Advantage of Preventive Medicine

—Care Increases the Span of Life

Avail Yourself of the Health Benefits in Modern Knowledge of Disease, Urges Dr. Copeland, Pointing Out the Marvelous Progress of Medical Science in Recent Years.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE have made great progress against disease. This is shown by the cutting in half of the nation's death rate since 1900.

Much of this decrease, of course, has been among infants. It is believed, however, there can be made a further great decrease in the present general death rate. Too many people have not yet availed themselves of what is called "preventive medicine."

Many diseases of infants, children and adults, can and should be prevented. The future of medicine and the future of the nation as a whole, lies not in the curing of diseases, but in the prevention of diseases.

To a remarkable degree, public health can be bought. Unfortunately, there are too many communities that neglect to do the things that prevent disease. There are too many individuals who will not take advantage of their opportunities.

Since the discovery of the toxin-anti-toxin control of diphtheria, the death rate of this disease has been reduced 95 per cent. If all parents would take their children to physicians for injection against this disease, there would be no diphtheria.

With care in the cleanliness in the homes and city streets, with proper supervision of the water and milk supplies, and protection against flies, typhoid fever, at one time a very common disease, is now comparatively rare. There is now available a vaccine that protects against this disease.

Wherever typhoid fever does exist, it may be said to be due to carelessness. This carelessness is either the fault of the individual or of the community. Insurance in these matters is almost criminal.

We look forward to the day when preventive medicine and care of the public health will become a national affair. War must be declared on all diseases that can be prevented and which still cripple the nation. It is true that the health of the people of the United States and Canada is far better today than it was in 1900, but there still remains much to be done.

This is a subject which should be taught in the schools. It should be discussed in the home. The press, the pulpit, the radio—these agents for good should be enlisted even more than they now are in spreading health knowledge.

Nationalism vs. Sectionalism

THERE is need in congress for a leader of men, but the cross-purpose and quarrels and squabbles exhibited by that body show the greater need to be for a preponderance of nationalists in its membership. The nation expects men saturated with individual and parochial ideas and prejudices to agree to a broad national policy. The present congress is made up of a large number of men, each scrambling to get all he can for himself and his own immediate constituents and permitting their selfish wants and requirements to blind him to the national welfare. National relief must wait until each senator and representative obtains from the federal government relief for the particular locality from which he draws his votes. National appropriations must give the right of way to provincial grants. National problems must go unsolved until local issues have been decided.

It is not a new worry. The present emergency only makes it seem so. President Madison wrote of it. Webster and a few other senators before and since his time have on rare occasions taken the stand that the good of the nation comes first though it may mean injury to their home districts.

Because grave national problems confront the country, the need for national men was never greater than it is today. Congress must produce men who place their country first, their state or district second and their own political futures last.

White Elephants

FOR more than 12 years the great government plant at Muscle Shoals has remained idle while congress has wrangled over its disposition. Even now the house and senate are deadlocked on the question of how it shall be operated. There is no assurance that this controversy will ever end, for it is doubtful if congress will ever sell it to private interests, and as long as it is under government control it will be a football of politics. The indecisiveness of congress has put the people in that despairing mood where they will soon favor scrapping the plant or giving it away.

The Hoover dam at Black Canyon promises to be another Muscle Shoals. Congress seems to be over-powered by its affection for white elephants.

Hoover or Boulder dam has been a bone of contention since congress took up the matter of its construction. Here the seeds of controversy are even more numerous than at Muscle Shoals. Arizona is attacking the validity of the act and the states compact by which the project was authorized. All states affected are dissatisfied with the allocation of power. Mexico has protested against the diversion of the waters of the Colorado River. And the battle between the private control and government control factions still rages.

It is good policy to proceed with the expenditure of $250,000,000 before all the quarrels, dissatisfactions, and questions of operation have been ironed out. There was some excuse for running up a blind alley in the case of Muscle Shoals which was primarily a war emergency project. But no emergency exists at Hoover dam.

"Really, dearest, it would be the most awful thing in the world for you if I did marry you. I'd be an awful wife for a poor man. It would be the worst tragedy—" "Tragedy, honey?" He was stroking her wind-blown curls, getting her, comforting her as one comforts a frightened child. "That's the word." But she smiled through her tears.

"Well, that's too bad, Mrs. Doctor. Hate to have you start out your married life feeling that way. But you and I are going to get on with our lives right pronto—" "We can't—" the bus for Yosemite—" Roger, what time is it?" He grinned as he looked at his watch. "Five minutes past twelve. Your bus is gone, honey. Hungry?" "GOD!" Why, it can't be gone. My fare was paid on it. I don't know what to do!" She scolded her hands together, trippingly. "Roger, you should have told me. This shouldn't have happened—" "Now you've got to come with me!" His blue eyes were daring. One long, lean arm shot out and pulled her to him.

"Help me! Help me!" Oh, if she only knew a prayer. "Dear God, help me!" But she couldn't keep her mind on it, with him kissing her eyes and his arm about her. "Lighter—" he whispered. "Roger, can't you see how can I? What would people think?" "Nothing. We'll be married, won't we?" "You don't mean anybody you haven't had a wife?" "Yes, you go to it!" "You're going to?" "I wouldn't dare do this family—" "Damn the family, Doctor!" she flung. "We'll call on them one of these days and tell them we're married!"

tioned there. Now the military forces are to be withdrawn and a civilian government established. When the military departs they will depart with it the principal source of livelihood of a majority of the inhabitants. Upon a number of occasions Washington has had to feed the islanders to save them from starvation. What is to be done with them now is a difficult problem.

It is good policy to proceed with the expenditure of $250,000,000 before all the quarrels, dissatisfactions, and questions of operation have been ironed out. There was some excuse for running up a blind alley in the case of Muscle Shoals which was primarily a war emergency project. But no emergency exists at Hoover dam.

Hoover or Boulder dam has been a bone of contention since congress took up the matter of its construction. Here the seeds of controversy are even more numerous than at Muscle Shoals. Arizona is attacking the validity of the act and the states compact by which the project was authorized. All states affected are dissatisfied with the allocation of power. Mexico has protested against the diversion of the waters of the Colorado River. And the battle between the private control and government control factions still rages.

Luckless Islands

THE Virgin Islands have run into a string of bad luck since the time of their purchase by the United States. Misfortune after misfortune has been their lot. First, prohibition ruined the profitable business of the natives of St. Croix on Santa Cruz, largest of the group of beautiful islands. They once manufactured rum from their sugar. Now their business is outlawed and they have no market for their sugar.

Prohibition is also the root of the troubles of the citizens of St. John, who once grew bay for the manufacture of rum. Regulation has so handicapped this industry as to make it unprofitable. And now misfortune overtakes the smallest of the main islands. It has for generations lived almost entirely upon the ships that anchor there for supplies, and, since the American occupation, upon the windmills of the three navy reefs and mowers who have been sta-all right. Come on, sweetheart, we've got to get our things and be on our way." She let him carry her up the rocky trail to the road. He did it easily, as if she were a child. "At least you ought to be glad he's so strong," regular he-man, no mistak' about that." She tilted her eyes and smiled teasingly, evaluating in his supple strength, in his clear brown skin, darker than his unburned hair, his twinkling bright blue eyes, the color of sapphires, until she thought of mama. Mama with her jaw aching. "Married? My baby married to a ranger? Going to live in the mountains?" Nancy wept again for mama.

Roger said, "Haven't you cried enough for one day? I'm afraid you'll dissolve into tears and I won't have anything left!" So she was merry all the bumpy ride back to the camp. "Imagine the bus driver thought when I didn't show up? I'd give anything to see Mrs. Porter's face when she finds out. Ooh! I won't she be envious? I kiss me, Roger. It's five minutes since you have. I won't be neglected on my wedding day. I remind me to wire Aunt Ellie..." and mama

"If I had known she couldn't say quiet and ladylike in the hotel I wouldn't have taken her!" Aunt Ellie retorted warmly. "After all I've done—spending money like water—this is all she thanks me for!" She groped for a chair and sank into it, panting. Louise, with a tired gesture, took the letter from her mother's hands, and read it through. "Dearest Mama:

"Just a line from your wandering Nancy. Louise probably wrote you that I went on to Tuolumne Meadows with Aunt Ellie's friends, the Porters. Mr. and Mrs. and Miss. The oldest one is always getting her feelings hurt, but the youngest is worse, always giggling, but you can't help but have a wonderful time in such a beautiful place."

"I wrote Louise and Aunt Ellie not to wait at Yosemite for me, because the Porters decided not to go back to Yosemite, but to go on to Tahoe and then Reno, and their plans are, so, if they show signs of wandering too far, may leave them."

"Reno is a funny place, but no chance to see the beautiful divorcees, as we are just passing through. Louise will probably get home before I do. Love to all. "NANCY."

"She doesn't say much." "It doesn't sound like her, Louise. I'm afraid of that high alpine. I won't agree with her. I remember when I was a girl I went on a trip to Los Angeles, and crossing the mountains I fainted dead away—" (To Be Continued Tomorrow)

Take Advantage of Preventive Medicine

Care Increases the Span of Life

Avail Yourself of the Health Benefits in Modern Knowledge of Disease, Urges Dr. Copeland, Pointing Out the Marvelous Progress of Medical Science in Recent Years.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WE have made great progress against disease. This is shown by the cutting in half of the nation's death rate since 1900.

Much of this decrease, of course, has been among infants. It is believed, however, there can be made a further great decrease in the present general death rate. Too many people have not yet availed themselves of what is called "preventive medicine."

Many diseases of infants, children and adults, can and should be prevented. The future of medicine and the future of the nation as a whole, lies not in the curing of diseases, but in the prevention of diseases.

To a remarkable degree, public health can be bought. Unfortunately, there are too many communities that neglect to do the things that prevent disease. There are too many individuals who will not take advantage of their opportunities.

We look forward to the day when preventive medicine and care of the public health will become a national affair. War must be declared on all diseases that can be prevented and which still cripple the nation. It is true that the health of the people in the United States and Canada is far better today than it was in 1900, but there still remains much to be done.

This is a subject which should be taught in the schools. It should be discussed in the home. The newspaper, the pulpit, the radio—these agencies that prevent disease. There are too many individuals who will not take advantage of their opportunities.

Since the discovery of the toxin-antitoxin control of diphtheria, the death rate of this disease has been reduced 85 per cent. If our physicians would take their children to physicians for injection against this disease there would be no diphtheria. With care in the cleanliness in the homes and city streets, with proper supervision of the water and milk supplies, and protection against flies, typhoid fever, at one time a very common disease, is now comparatively rare. There is now available a vaccine that protects against this disease.

Wherever typhoid fever does exist, it may be said to be due to lack of cleanliness. This is the fault of the individual or of the community. Ignorance in these matters is almost criminal.

We look forward to the day when preventive medicine and care of the public health will become a national affair. War must be declared on all diseases that can be prevented and which still cripple the nation. It is true that the health of the people in the United States and Canada is far better today than it was in 1900, but there still remains much to be done.

whole is an event which should not be missed by any in Circleville who take their entertainment seriously.

Miss Chatterton enacts two distinct roles in "The Right to Love," and in one of them veers from girlhood to mother type, without a single error in mood, coiffure, speech, costume and pose. This is, at least, a triple achievement.

EDWARD SISTERS
Two beautiful girls and two beautiful voices. They alone give you full measure for your money. These girls have been on the stage ever since they were old enough to walk, first appearing with their father and mother, and for the past three years they have been doing their own act, with phenomenal success. They are at the Cliftona Wednesday and Thursday.

AT THE GRAND
Frances Stillman and the Cosmopolitan Minstrel Revue will make things hot at the Grand theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, according to an announcement by Mr. Baughman, manager of the theatre Monday.

A real evening's entertainment is promised by the troupe which is made up of Dick Moran, Noble Kelly, Jackie Edwards, Roger Logan, Jack Chenoweth, Phil Meredith, Raymond Bros. John Mattes and Frances Stillman. A real minstrel show is this one, one of the best attractions the Grand has booked this year.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA
America's own "duse of drama," at least insofar as the "talkies" are concerned, endows the screen, at the Cliftona Theatre, with a new emotional triumph that will elicit all the nice things any photoplay audience can say, if there is more to be said after those outstanding productions, "Madame X," "Sarah and Son," "Anybody's Woman."

The duse, of course is Ruth Chatterton; the drama, "The Right to Love," which Richard Wallace has camered in dialogue for Paramount from the Susan Glaspell book, "Brook Evans." And the whole is an event which should not be missed by any in Circleville who take their entertainment seriously.

Miss Chatterton enacts two distinct roles in "The Right to Love," and in one of them veers from girlhood to mother type, without a single error in mood, coiffure, speech, costume and poise. This is, at least, a triple achievement.

EDWARD SISTERS

Two beautiful girls and two beautiful voices. They alone give you full measure for your money. These girls have been on the stage ever since they were old enough to walk, first appearing with their father and mother, and for the past three years they have been doing their own act, with phenomenal success. They are at the Cliftona Wednesday and Thursday.

AT THE GRAND

Frances Stillman and the Cosmopolitan Minstrel Revue will make things hot at the Grand theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, according to an announcement by Mr. Baughman, manager of the theatre Monday.

A real evening's entertainment is promised by the troupe which is made up of Dick Moran, Noble Kelly, Jackie Edwards, Roger Logan, Jack Chenoweth, Phil Meredith, Raymond Bros. John Mattes and Frances Stillman. A real minstrel show is this one, one of the best attractions the Grand has booked this year.
